

The Ice Wars of Dominia

The Ice Wars of Dominia is the third and final volume in the Evolution series. Over a century has passed since the cataclysmic events of 2045, and the world is a very different place. The climatic change had deepened and spread ice over much of the planet. Consequently all Earth inhabitants were gradually forced into a narrow band of habitable domain - named the Temperate Zone. A clash of nomadic and indigenous cultures became inevitable as their world continued to shrink. Initially, the friction involved five nations, and because of the extent of the creeping icecaps, conflict was unavoidable. Only mediaeval technology had survived, but was unevenly enhanced by the twenty-second century post-cataclysm nations. The theatre of war was shaped. There was however, another influence residing in orbit, which would have a major say in the final outcome.
